WORLD LEADERS.

I would be most grateful if you could forward the enclosed letter to the leader of your country.

The letter contains simple common sense, based on natural law, that may bring a little bit of order into the currently confused and dangerous world we live in today.

It is terrifying to think how much damage could be done to our living planet as a result of one single individual human error.

All of us know "human error" is in our DNA.

It must not be allowed to happen on the big stage.

With kind regards.

Philip Arundell.

PS. I know you must all feel cross and embarrassed to have carry out this request from an "unknown", but I have lived a few more years than you, and my view points do come from a little outside the normal, and may just help.

All of you know the real and immediate danger our world is in.

In simple terms, all life on earth is now in jeopardy because one species of supposedly civilised, intelligent and grown up human beings, blessed with rational brains, are fighting like 5 year olds over toys...depending on which religion, football team or political philosophy you choose to follow.

While we humans are all partly to blame, we must, right now, pinpoint the responsibility of stopping anything bad from happening onto the shoulders of our current world leaders. And you are one step away from them.

So please have the courage to send this letter on.

Maybe it is time a "simpleton" put his 5 centavos worth into the pot.
